13 Awesome Things to do in Savonlinna, Finland

6 Comments / Finland / By Josh / 26/08/2019

Your Ultimate Guide to Savonlinna, Finland

Savonlinna is a stunning old city located in the middle of the Saimaa Lakes, Finland's largest lake system. When you visit Savonlinna you are literally surrounded by water and can immerse yourself in a beautiful yet non-touristy Finnish city.

Though many people may not have heard of it before traveling to Finland, there is a surprising number of things to do in Savonlinna. From exploring the stunning Olavinlinna Castle to paddling through the national park while spotting the world's rarest seal, or cruising around the harbor on a traditional steamboat, you won't get bored here, that's why I've also listed it as one of the top places in Finland.

We visited Savonlinna for 4 days as part of our two-week road trip around Finland. But to be honest, we could easily have spent an entire week here.

In this guide, I will cover 13 things to do in Savonlinna. Note that a few of these will only be applicable in the summer months, so be sure to check opening hours and

Olavinlinna Castle

Get Lost in Olavinlinna Castle

Opening Hours: Daily from 11am-6pm

Olavinlinna Castle was built in the 15th century, originally named St Olaf's Castle by a Danish noble called Erik Axelson Tott. The castle was historically a key strategic fortress along the former border of the Swedish and Russian Empires. Over the centuries it changed hands between the two empires several times after bloody medieval battles were fought on its grounds.

These days, Olavinlinna Castle is the northernmost medieval stone fortress that remains standing. It is a heritage protected national icon in Finland.

SS Paul Wahl Steamboat

Hop on a Steamboat Cruise

One of Finland's most nostalgic activities is to board a steamboat on a nice afternoon. There are a number of old steamboats right around the Lakeland region.  English

There are three steamboats in Savonlinna; SS Punkaharju, SS Paul Wahl, and SS Savonlinna (SS denoting Steam Ship). We took a 1.5-hour cruise on SS Punkaharju which went around the harbor passing Olavinlinna Castle, a bunch of small islands in the lake, and some beautiful old summer houses by the water.

The steamboat captain named Juri runs these trips out of pure love for the boats. I highly suggest having a chat with him if your boat isn't too crowded, he's interesting and very easy to talk too.

Steamboat cruises run around Savonlinna harbor from the start of June to the end of August. The boats only typically run if they get at least 6 passengers.

Savonlinna Old Town

Wander Through Savonlinna's Old Town

Nearby Savonlinna's harbor you will find a few old cobblestone streets lined with colorful wooden buildings. This is the typical Finnish historical town setting, similar to the old towns in Raahe, Kokkola, and Porvoo.

I suggest taking a walk along Linnankatu where you will find a few nice restaurants, bars, cafes, and old buildings. It's only a 2-3 minute walk from Olavinlinna Castle.

Lörsty from Teboil Savonlinna

Eat Lörsty, Savonlinna's Local Delicacy

It's like a donut filled with a meat pie, then topped with a cucumber salad. Sounds weird, tastes delicious. Lörsty is the local dish from Savonlinna, and apparently, it's pretty tough to find a decent one elsewhere.

It might be a contentious point, but I've been told the best Lörsty is from the Teboil Kallislahti (petrol station) about 17 kilometers west of the city. That's where I got mine (pictured above). Others say the best Lörsty in Savonlinna is at the harbor near the

Taste the Local Craft Beers

It's no secret that I love beer, and tasty craft beer all that much more. Considering how expensive alcohol is in Finland, it's actually quite surprising that this craft beer trend has

There are some amazing breweries operating in the region such as Waah  English Mustaan Virran, and the Saimaa Brewing Company. You can buy their beers from most good supermarkets these days, but nothing beats having a cold beer on tap at the source.

Visit Waahto Brewery or Mustaan Virran Brewery right near Olavinlinna Castle on a nice warm summer's afternoon.

Summer Cabin by Saimaa Lakes

Stay at a Lakeside Cabin

What would a trip to Finnish Lakeland be without spending some time in a lakeside cabin? You'll typically need to drive a bit further out of town to find there, but it's totally worth the effort. Just about all these cabins come with a wood fireplace, and wood Kerimäki Church is the largest wooden church in the world measuring 45 meters long, 42 meters wide and 27 meters high. It's pretty impressive from both the interior and exterior. Kerimäki Church is large enough to seat over 3000 people at once!

Punkaharju Hotel

Enjoy the Punkaharju Hotel Buffet

Opening Hours: 11.30am-10pm

I've said it in my summer guide to Rovaniemi, and I'll say it again. Finns LOVE buffets. This is a Finnish culture I had no idea of before visiting the country for the first time.

One of the best lunch buffets in all of Finland is at Hotel Punkaharju, located 36 kilometers southeast of Savonlinna on the stunning Punkaharju Ridge. The hotel and restaurant is run by Saimi Hoyer, a super famous Finnish model and TV personality.

What makes the restaurant particularly famous is that all the food is sourced locally.

tend to say their country lacks its own food identity, however, Hotel Punk  English ng
Finland one step closer to solving that.

The restaurant at Hotel Punkaharju is open from 11.30am to 10pm daily, however, the lunch buffet is only served from 11.30 to 3.00pm daily. The restaurant can get quite busy for lunch, so you may like to consider making a reservation on Hotel Punkaharju's website the day before you visit.

Explore the Kuikonniemen Fortress

 English

Open Hours: Always | Entry: Free

There were some bloody battles fought against Russia in Finland's Winter War, however, the fighting never actually made it to Punkaharju. The Kuikonniemen Fortress was one of the defenses built by the Finns around 1944 to defend the esker region (Savonlinna/Punkaharju).

The Kuikonniemen Fortress is a long series of trenches hidden in the forest along the Punkaharju Ridge. The trenches are lined with wooden logs but have deteriorated over time and are now fenced off so that you are only supposed to walk around the outside.

Visiting the Kuikonniemen Fortress is a bit tricky. There is a carpark along Punkaharju with a sign which indicates the trenches are nearby. In fact, the best way is not to go through the carpark, but another 50 meters up the road (heading south) where you can easily find the trenches on the left-hand side.

The trenches are open all day, and there is no entry fee.

Saimaa Ringed Seal – Image: Ismo Pekkarinen / AOP

Spot the Saimaa Ringed Seal

The Saimaa Ringed Seal is the rarest seal in the world. Only about 360 of these seals remain in the wild, and all of them live only in the Saimaa lakes region. The population fluctuates each year depending on how heavy the winter is.

The Saimaa Ringed Seal has been cut off from the ocean since the last Ice Age (at least 8,000 years ago). Since then it has adapted from living in seawater to freshwater.

The best place to spot the Saimaa Ringed Seal in around Linnansaari Nat  English

There are daily tours departing from Orvai Village. The tours are weather dependant, if the wind is heavy then the water will be quite rough and unsuitable for the small lake boats. Tours typically cost about 70 euro per person and run for a few hours in the mornings.

Visit the Lusto Forest Museum

Opening Hours: Tues-Sun 10am-5pm | Entry: 11 Euro

Shares Lusto Finnish Forest Museum is one of the quirkiest places I have been to in Finland. It explores various aspects of the close relationship between Finns and their forests. If you hadn't noticed yet, there is a lot of forest in Finland.

A series of exhibitions will take you through the history of forestry in Finland, from the 1800s and prior where logs were transported by floating them downriver, to the modern-day where sustainable forestry practices are implemented.

An hour visit here will give you a much better appreciation for one of Finland's primary industries, and how it has shaped the country and the people today.

Check the latest entry fees and opening hours on the Lusto Forest Museum website.

Hike or Kayak through Linnansaari National Park

The Linnansaari National Park is the true essence of Finnish Lakeland. It is located just east of the small villages of Rantasalmi and Porosalmi (about 45 kilometers north of Savonlinna).

There are a number of hiking trails in the national park ranging from 2 to 7 kilometers in length. All of these trails are located on the main Linnansaari Island. You can read more

Canoeing and kayaking around the islands are both popular in the summer.  English

There is a 40 kilometer water trail which you can follow, provide you bring a tent and allow 6 to 7 days. Whether you want to paddle around the islands for half a day or half a week, you can get further information on equipment rental here.

Kick Back in Sauna World

It sounds like something too good to be true Finnish theme park, but I kid you not, Sauna World exists. This is actually part of what the Finns refer to as a “wellness retreat” at the 30 euro you get access to a whole series of saunas; traditional smoke saunas, steam saunas, really hot saunas, and some more mild saunas. You will also be able to use the pools with their super strong massage jets, plunge in the outdoor ice pool, or take an “arctic storm” rain shower.

Do you need the relaxation you need? You can book online here.

How to Get to Savonlinna

Savonlinna is located about 330 kilometers northeast of Helsinki. Although there is an airport, I don't see much point in flying when you are on holiday. I will cover the following three options; bus, train, and car.

- Car – the drive from Helsinki to Savonlinna is beautiful. The road passes by many huge lakes and along some very scenic ridges where you will be surrounded by endless water on either side. I'd suggest driving via Mikkeli which takes under 4 hours direct.

- Train – there are 5 train services per day from Helsinki to Savonlin  English need to make a transfer in the village of Parikkala. The total journey time is just over 4 hours, tickets cost about 40 euros depending on the time of departure from Helsinki. Tickets can be booked online at VR Finnish Railways.
- Bus – there are 5 bus services per day from Helsinki to Savonlinna, 4 of which are direct. The journey time is just over 5 hours, and a ticket costs 19-25 euro depending on the time of departure from Helsinki. Tickets can be booked online at Matkahuolto.

Hey, great text! but one correction how to get to Savonlinna: there are actually ~~one~~ direct flights per day (mon-fri) between Helsinki and Savonlinna and from Savonlinna to Helsinki. The flight takes only 55 min and it's pretty budget-friendly (around 60€ per one way and the price includes soft and alcohol beverages too!) :-)

You can get tickets by: <https://airlink.worldticket.net/en/>
